HARTFORD REPUBLICAN.

OFFICIAL ORGAN OF THE PARTY IN THE FOURTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT.

VOL. IX.

HARTFORD, KY., FRIDAY, APRIL 30, 1897.

NO. 40.

ALMOST MARRIED.

Had the Magistrate and the Ring, but no License.

An aged colored couple from the "Point" created a great deal of amusement in Magistrate Olmstead's court yesterday afternoon.

When they entered their faces were wreathed in smiles, and, walking up to the "Squire," who was sitting at his desk, they shyly informed him that they wanted to be married. Along with this information the old man gave a large brass ring, which looked as though it had been in use for years. He whispered in a low tone that he would pay the "Squire" for his services next Saturday night. This was all satisfactory, and the ceremony was prepared for.

After they had joined hands and "Squire Olmstead had assumed that dignified look which he always wears on such occasions, he remembered that they had given him no license.

"Where is your license?" "Ma what?" inquired the old man. "I guess we'll have to do without it, if you was so set on it."

The old woman looked grieved, and in a low tone the old man remarked: "Just tink ob de greens and jowl dat'll get." This pacified her and they left as if two ceremonies had been performed. [Courier Journal.

Types of Kentucky Saddle-Horses. Kentuckians have bred saddle-horses for beauty and charms, and have got them. There is a charm about the Kentucky horse that no other American horse has. No other animals I have met in the country exist in the memory with quite the fascination of a high degree. He had the graceful Kentucky characteristics—and yet with a difference. His beauty appeared particularly in the shape of the rump and in the carriage of the tail. There was an exquisite trick in the conformation of the quarters. "Charming and very Kentucky," you said, as you looked at them, and yet you felt you had never seen quite that before. It was perhaps a bold fight nearer the Kentucky ideal than you had seen. This quality of the figure was certainly due to an infusion of the Denmark grace. The tail was the other chief beauty. There was an airy grace in the carriage of it which reminded you of the fortunate work of some architect of genius. "What have you done to him?" I said, referring to the graceful lightness with which the tail was held. "Nothing," said the farmer, "as you drive out the gate you will see his old dam in the pasture to the left, and you will see that she carries just the same tail that he does." I did look at the mare on the way out, and it was so. This carriage of the tail is also a Denmark characteristic. It is said, by-the-way, that this tail has been transmitted to the Kentucky horse from the Arab progenitor of the English thoroughbred, and that the trait is due to the fact that the hair was not allowed to grow upon the tail of an Arab till he was five years old; the custom of keeping the tail shaved, observed through many generations, made it thus light and easy held up.—[Harpers Weekly.

Many lives have been saved by the timely use of Dr. Bell's Pine Tar-Honey. When a cold creeps upon you, or a cough racks your lungs, no remedy is so prompt or effectual. Can be given to children with perfect safety and is sure to produce beneficial results. For sale by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro.

Where, Oh Where. Where, oh where has the young man gone whose graduation clothes were put on sometime along the last of May and who owned the world for a day? And where is the sweet girl graduate who chanted an essay dread with fate, and started out with a giggling frown to turn the whole world upside down? And where is the last year's candidate who had things fixed up for last year's slate? Who carried around as you'd believe a couple of counties in his sleeve? And where is the scribe with a vaulting will who tried a long felt want to fill, and counted shekels and renowned with a million paper in a bourgeois town? The lad has divided the world up fair, and holds but his own eight billionth share; the sweet girl grad is a grand surprise and conquers the world with well made pies; the candidate with the ceaseless "gall" is fixing himself for another fall; while the journalist with the haughty crest has gone the way of last year's nest. So year by year and day by day the world rolls on in the same old way; the balloon that is biggest round about is the flabbiest rag when the gas is out.—[Robt. J. Burdette.

Your Boy Won't Live a Month. So Mr. Gilman Brown, of 34 Mill St., South Gardner, Mass., was told by the doctors. His son had Lung trouble, following Typhoid Malaria, and he spent three hundred and seventy-five dollars with doctors, who finally gave him up, saying: "Your boy won't live a month." He tried Dr. King's New Discovery and a few bottles restored him to health and enabled him to go to work a perfectly well man. He says he owes his present good health to use of Dr. King's New Discovery, and knows it to be the best in the world for lung trouble. Trial Bottles Free at Williams & Bell's Drug Store.

Did You Ever Think That a kind word put out at interest brings back an enormous percentage of love and appreciation? That though a loving thought may not seem to be appreciated it has yet made you better and braver because of it? That the little act of kindness and thoughtfulness day by day are really greater than an immense act of goodness once a year? That to be always polite to the people at home is not only more lady-like, but more refined than having "company manners"? That to learn to talk pleasantly about nothing in particular is a great art and prevents you saying things that you may regret? That to judge anybody by their personal appearance stamps you as not only ignorant, but vulgar? That to talk about yourself and belongings is very tiresome for the people who listen? That to be witty at the expense of somebody else is quite many times? That the ability to keep a friend is much greater than that required to gain?—[Rrs.

THE FOUR SEASONS.

As Viewed by the Doctor, Rather Than the Artist.

We often see in the magazines reproductions of famous paintings representing the "Four Seasons." They are generally personated by beautiful women, and the typical spring is generally a young girl. She is bouyant and elastic, her eyes are all of fire, her form lissom and graceful. Her cheeks flush with health and there breathes from the canvas the impression of radiant health.

It is true, we sometimes see our young women in such a state of health in the spring time; but it is the exception. Depression and languor are generally in evidence and the drooping, listless figure of the school girl, the housewife, are seen in nearly every home. Perfect health is rare in any season, but this is especially so in the spring. The great majority of the people need a tonic in the spring. There are a great many tonics and they are all taken by the people to a greater or less extent. But the one that seems most popular at this time of the year is Pe-runa. It strengthens the weary body, invigorates the nerves and clears the mind. It leaves no bad effect upon the system as it is discontinued. The fact of the efficacy of Pe-runa as a spring tonic is becoming more widely known every spring. More Pe-runa is being taken this spring than ever before. The people have learned that it is unailing, and so do not experiment, but immediately buy Pe-runa when the old listlessness of "spring fever" overtakes them.

Any one who desires Dr. Hartman's latest book on this and kindred subjects may obtain one free by addressing The Pe-runa Drug Manufacturing Company, Columbus, Ohio.

The May issue of the College News published by the American Business College, Omaha, Neb., will contain a large number of testimonials from students and graduates of the A. B. C. Kentucky and Kansas will be most prominently represented.

HOW TO FIND OUT. Fill a bottle or common water glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment of settling indicates a diseased condition of the kidneys. When urine stands limen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO. There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists price fifty cents and one dollar. For a sample bottle and pamphlet, both sent free by mail, mention THE HARTFORD REPUBLICAN and send your full post-office address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The proprietors of this paper guarantee the genuineness of this offer.

Editorial Paragraphs. The reaction in Rhode Island was in the wrong direction for the Democratic arithmetic victory.

The Republican victory in St. Louis has spoiled thousands of projected Democratic editorials on "The Reaction."

A sign of business improving is the increase in the money order business during the first quarter of this year. The gain in domestic money orders is reported to be general throughout the country.

New York is to have a new custom house and Philadelphia a new mint. By a judicial use of both the Republicans will begin paying off the public debt in two dollars before the year 1900.

Both kinds of Democrats will make speeches this week in honor of Thomas Jefferson, but one disavows his protective ideas and the other repudiates his sound money principles.

Since 1887 Uncle Sam has built twelve war ships, and each has been faster than the contract required. The swiftest of all is the Minneapolis, which called for twenty-one knots and made over twenty-three on her trial trip.

St. Louis' bank clearings go right on increasing, despite the floods which interrupt business. The clearings in the week just ended show a handsome increase over those of the corresponding time last year, although the destruction by the high water in the region tributary to this city is much greater now than it was then.—[Globe Democrat.

The Proper Way to Roast Ducks and Geese. Prime ducks must be fat and young, the lower part of the legs and webbing of the feet soft, and the squder bill sufficiently soft to break easily," writes Mrs. S. T. Rorer in her cooking lesson on "The Cooking of Poultry." "The usual rules for roasting and baking will apply to ducks and geese. They cost in, however, much more fat than either turkeys or chickens, this, melting while they are roasting, may be saved for frying purposes and use in place of butter. Instead of using bread crumbs as dressing for ducks of geese use potato. For a medium-sized duck allow four good-sized potatoes or two cups of mashed potatoes. While the potatoes are hot and light add to them one cup of chopped English walnuts, a teaspoonful of salt, half a cup of chopped celery, and a salt-spoonful of pepper. When thoroughly mixed put the dressing into the duck or goose, sew up the vent, and it is ready to roast. The peculiar flavor imparted by the celery in the roasting gives a taste much the flavor of a wild one. One of the choice dishes among German-Americans is goose stuffed with sauerkraut. The sauerkraut is washed thoroughly and soaked overnight in cold water, then stuffed into the goose, the goose trussed and cooked slowly."

Get a nickel's worth of nitrate of liver at a drug store and put in a tumbler of water from the well. If the water is pure it will remain clear. If impure it will turn milky. In this simple manner you can know if your well needs cleaning and possibly head off a run of typhoid fever. Don't forget after you are through with the test to throw the mixture away for it is deadly poison and leaves a stain on your hands and everything that it touches.

It is not a good idea to take a pistol to church, especially if you are liable to be called on to lead in prayer.

Jonah Crosby, of South Carolina, a member of the church, went to prayer meeting one night recently and was called on to lead the devotional exercises. Just as he knelt down to offer up his petition to the Most High, his pistol slipped around in his way. When he went to change its position the blamed thing went off, shot him in the leg and frightened the whole congregation out of their wits. Jonah will pray standing up for awhile, and will perhaps hereafter leave his shooting iron at home.

President McKinley not only treats his own Vice President with confidence and cordial friendship, but extends toward the Vice President of Mr. Cleveland a respect and consideration which he never received from that gentleman while President. In appointing Mr. Stevenson upon the Bimetall Commission, President McKinley acted the gentleman, as well as the statesman. There never was anything but good in McKinley Bill.

If Senator Morgan will cast his eagle Alabama eye around the balance of the United States, he will notice no excessive restlessness among the people because of the inaction of the House. It is the inaction of the Senate that is ruffling their temper. The House did promptly all it was called in special session to do; if the Senate will do the same and allow Congress to adjourn, Senator Morgan may be assured that it will make the people happy, although they may be deprived of a ton or two or his speeches about Cuba and the Nicaragua canal.

How dear to the heart is the old yellow pumpkin, when orchards are barren of stuffin' of pies. When peaches and apples have both been a failure and berries but few have greeted our eyes, how fondly we turn to the fruit of the corn field, the fruit that our children are taught to despise the old yellow pumpkin, the mud covered pumpkin, the big-bellied pumpkin that make such good pies.

CREDIT FOR FARMERS.

Continuance of Present Conditions a Distinct Hardship to Agriculture.

We have lately given some accounts of the operation of agricultural banks in Europe, which have done very much for the farming class by making it possible for it to secure loans on such security as farmers can offer. The farmer is especially in need of credit, for the interval must always be considerable between the preparation of the soil and the harvesting of the crop. He must spend money a long time before he can get any back. As to most of his products, he may be said to be carrying on a business where the stock is turned over but once a year. Furthermore, as a crop matures all over the country at the same season, and generally within a period of a few weeks, it is particularly important to the farmer that he should not be compelled to realize or his harvests immediately. He would break the market if he were obliged to sell all his crops as soon as gathered, and yet he must sell a good deal, for he has been under expense for months without any income.

While the farmer more than almost any other producer needs credit, he cannot generally offer commercial security, and real estate is not a good security for ordinary banks to discount to take, and it is unlawful for one national bank to accept it. The result is that the farmer is usually compelled to sell his produce at an unpropitious time or to get credit of merchants and private bankers for which usurious rates are obtained. In this country there has been practically no effort to supply this need for agricultural credit, although the brokers and private bankers and factors who have made a practice of lending to farmers have made a great deal of money out of it, for the absence of competition enables them to get a high rate for money, and the farmer pretty generally pays his debts.

It is singular that in our own country no effort has been made to afford agriculture in general the capital it needs for the improving of land and for carrying on farm operations during the long intervals between the annual marketing of crops. The changed conditions of the times make it imperative that farming must be conducted upon more scientific principles so as to get out of the land more than it has heretofore produced, and that necessity leaves no alternative but either to afford the farmer enlarged credit facilities or to leave the present landowners to be frozen out by insolvency, with the result of transferring this industry to less possessing ampler means and able to cultivate larger farms upon improved methods.—Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin.

Too Much Knife!

The use of the surgeon's knife is becoming so general, resulting fatally in such a large number of cases, as to occasion general alarm.

Mr. William Walpole, of Walshtown, South Dakota, writes: "About three years ago, there came under my left eye a little blotch about the size of a small pea. It grew rapidly, and shooting pains ran in every direction. I became alarmed and consulted a good doctor, who pronounced it cancer, and said that it must be cut out. This I would not consent to, having little faith in the indiscriminate use of the knife. Reading of the many cures made by S. S. S., I determined to give that medicine a trial, and after I had taken it a few days, the cancer became irritated and began to discharge. This after awhile ceased, leaving a small scab, which finally dropped off, and only a healthy little scar remained to mark the place where the destroyer had held full sway."

"You can fool some of the people part of the time, but you can't fool all the people all the time."

THAT CASE IN POINT.

The Beaver Dam Gleaner sticks out for principles at all times and being outspoken in its editorial columns the editor has seen fit in the last few issues of his paper to give some points regarding people who will sacrifice principles for a bare chance to run for office. This principle business does not suit the flim-flam editors of our city neighbor with English proclivities, hence they proceed to give Bro. Likens a drubbing this week, which read between the lines means that "everybody who does not see as we do will be damned." The Herald says:

"The Prohibitionists seem to have joined forces with the 'holier-than-thou' crowd, composed mostly of gold-bugs and Republicans and are just now raising a great hue and cry against the practice of office-holding, and against almost everything in general, while their own plea of prohibition receives little attention.

The Beaver Dam Gleaner has thrown its cast back and comes charging at us, like it would run over us whether or no, because we have announced our support of the fusion ticket, and it incidentally jumps on the Democrats and Populist for even thinking of wanting office. Of course Mr. Likens, of the Gleaner, don't want office—oh, no—he would run like a practiced sprinter if he should hear of anybody on his track proffering any kind of an official position. This was evidenced a month or two ago by a letter received by The Herald from that gentleman saying that he had a good chance of getting the position of State Organizer of his party and asking us to give him a lift in that direction. Of course we gave him a lift—he is a clever young man—then we lost sight of the matter and did not know he had gotten the position until we received a card from him stating the fact and asking us to make a note of it in The Herald. Now of course Mr. Likens did not want this office—he was just simply "in the hands of his friends." We would advise Mr. Likens to stick to his mutton, the empty whiskey bottle or come out straight on the side of the Republicans, for whom he seems to have such a close affinity. All of which is most respectfully and kindly submitted.

The Herald advises Mr. Likens to stick to his empty whiskey bottle—his principles—and at the same time they have forsaken principles to support a ticket made up of Populists and Democrats. We would advise the Herald to tread carefully along the lines of principles and to pluck the mote out of his own eye, before advising other people to stick to principles.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS
In time. Sold by druggists.

The Democratic bosses say that their men on the fusion ticket will run from 50 to 200 votes ahead of the Populists on the same ticket, because their men will not vote for a Populist. So we see the love that the Democrats have for their Populist brethren.

"WHICH SHALL IT BE?"

We notice from our two county contemporaries, both claiming to represent entirely different views in regard to the management of affairs of the Nation, that they have the ticket recently nominated by the Democrats, at the head of their papers under different heads. The Hartford Herald, Democrat, says:

DEMOCRATIC FUSION TICKET.

For Representative—G. D. Black.
For Circuit Clerk—G. B. Likens.
For County Judge—J. P. Miller.
For County Clerk—H. T. Thompson.
For County Attorney—Jo. B. Vickers.
For Sheriff—W. M. Addington.
For Jailer—Warren Taylor.
For School Supt.—J. D. Hocker.
For Coroner—J. J. Hoover.
For Surveyor—J. W. Petty.
For Assessor—J. D. Spurrier.

The Fordville Express, Populist, says:

POPULIST FUSION COUNTY TICKET.

For Representative—G. D. Black.
For Circuit Clerk—G. B. Likens.
For County Judge—J. P. Miller.
For County Clerk—H. T. Thompson.
For County Attorney—Jo. B. Vickers.
For Sheriff—W. M. Addington.
For Jailer—Warren Taylor.
For School Supt.—J. D. Hocker.
For Coroner—J. J. Hoover.
For Surveyor—J. W. Petty.
For Assessor—J. D. Spurrier.

Now, the question will arise which is correct, and the final outcome will be that neither is correct, for the men nominated at that convention will be put under the rooster on the ballot and will be headed "Democratic Ticket," and it seems to be the aim of our contemporaries to keep their readers ignorant of the fact as long as possible. Heretofore whenever a Democratic ticket was nominated the Herald always displayed the emblem of its party, but now they will not put up the emblem for they know that the Populists will not vote under that emblem, and they are trying to keep them in the dark regarding the matter, and want them to think that there will be a fusion device.

A large number of Populists have been led to believe that there will be a fusion device, and it was only last week that a good, honest Populist was in our office and he thought they would have a fusion device, as his Democratic neighbors had told him so; he said he would not vote that ticket if he had to vote under the rooster, so, dear readers, you can readily see why the device is not put up, and we only mention these facts so that the people may know the facts in the case. The Democrats refused to give up their device because they said it would kill their party, but they wanted to kill the Populist party and would force them to give up their device, thereby throwing all the Populists into the Democratic party.

EASTER.

It is generally understood that Easter Day is observed in commemoration of the Resurrection of Christ. However as last Sunday week was Easter, a few remarks regarding the origin of this celebration, may not be amiss. The word Easter is derived from an old Saxon word, Oster, meaning "rising." We find this by reference to the books; our knowledge of the old Saxon language being somewhat limited.

This day has been observed in some fashion for ages; it has not always had the same significance attached to it that we give it in this day and time.

The English name was derived from that of the Tenthonic Goddess of Spring, Eastre, whose festival was held about the same time of the year that we observe Easter.

It seems therefore in the early history of our English ancestors, that Easter was observed in honor of Spring.

It seems that in the early history of Christianity some Christians held that Christ was slain on the same day that the Jews observed as the feast of the passover, hence they observed April 14th as Easter, which was the same day observed by the Jews for the feast of the passover.

Other Christians thought the day of Christ's resurrection was more important than the day of his death and therefore held to Easter being observed on the Sunday which followed the 14th day of the Moon of March. Discussions arose as to which was the proper day to be observed, and came near causing a schism in the church. However in 825 A. D. the European Constantine had the matter brought before the Council at Nice. Here the question was fully discussed and finally resulted in the following rule being established for the whole church: "Easter Day is the first Sunday after the full moon which happens upon or next after the March 21st; and if the full moon happens on Sunday, Easter Day is the Sunday after."

Hence Easter may come as early as March 22d or as late as April 25th. Easter has been observed since the establishment of the Christian Church and is now observed by all Christian Churches.

In the early history of Christianity on Easter day all churches were ornamented with large wax candles, and Christians saluted each other with a kiss and the words, "Christ is risen;" to this a response was made, "Christ is indeed risen." This custom is still observed in the Grecian Church.

The custom of using Easter eggs is also very old. It is said that on a royal roll of the time of Edward I. of England, which is still preserved, appears an entry of 18 pence for 400 eggs to be used as Easter gifts.

It is a legend in parts of Iceland and also among some people in this country that the sun dances as it rises on Easter morning.

Easter as it is observed to-day is a day of worship; a day on which all should be devoutly thankful for mercies received; a day on which both saint and sinner should be spiritually minded.

Will Sue the Marshal.

Mr. L. A. Maden, of Palo, Ohio county, arrived in the city yesterday from Evansville. While in Evansville Maden was arrested by the police officers of that city, on the charge of murdering his father, Anthony Maden. The charge was preferred by C. E. Morrison, city marshal of Hartford, who telegraphed the Evansville officers to hold Maden until he could get there. Maden was placed in jail Monday night, where he remained until yesterday morning, when Morrison ordered him released, saying he was mistaken in his man. Maden was very indignant when seen by a reporter yesterday, and said he intended bringing suit against Morrison's Londoners at once.

Seven or eight years ago, Maden and his father had a difficulty, and the son placed a load of buckshot in his father, who, however, recovered, and is now hale and hearty. About four years ago Maden was employed as an engineer in this city. He left over the Illinois Central yesterday for his home.

Mr. Morrison was also seen by a reporter yesterday, he being on a way home from Evansville. He said that some days ago Alfred Hudson, a young white man, of Hartford, had committed rape on the person of a nine-year-old colored girl, and, after being arrested, had escaped from the officers and that it was thought he had gone to Evansville. Morrison said he telegraphed the Evansville police to watch out for Hudson. Later he received notice from the officers of that city saying they had a man in their keeping from Ohio county, who gave his name as L. Maden and asking Morrison if he thought it could be Hudson. Morrison said he at once wired them to hold him until he could get there. He says Maden was not arrested on a murder charge at his instigation and that he does not fear the result of a law-suit. —[Owensboro Messenger.]

Senator Deboe.

With great heartiness The Leader congratulates the Republican party of Kentucky and the Nation at large because of the election today of William J. Deboe to succeed Mr. Blackburn in the United States Senate. As a Republican, true to every tenet of his party's faith, he has risen by virtue of his ability and faithfulness to his present eminent position. He has proven himself equal to the discharge of the various trusts imposed upon him by his party. As an officer, he has served his State with conspicuous talents. As a private citizen he enjoys the perfect confidence of all who know him. That he will honor the position that he has been called to fill, is most certain. He wins this honor by a way dramatic and memorable. His every part in that great contest was borne honorably and with a sole desire to further the best interests of his party, and the end of the contest is one that will justify itself, even as the election of Dr. Hunter would have been only justice and duty that the Republicans owed to itself.

Senator Deboe succeeds one whose career has been marked by brilliancy and blundering. Kentucky can rest assured that in her new representative she will have a servant who will seek her good and the Nation's good rather than his own personal aggrandizement. Kentuckians will have at Washington a friend devoted and tireless in seeking their welfare. Many places will miss the late Senator from Kentucky, and perhaps they will not know the Junior Senator. But Kentucky will be none the worse for that, perhaps, and as we welcome gladly Senator Deboe, we say goodbye to Mr. Blackburn, the Senator, with no regret, even though we greet him cordially as a private citizen. —[Lexington Leader.]

A CALL MEETING.

Proceedings of the Populist Call Meeting.

WESTFIELD, KY., April 20.

The Populists met in this precinct last Saturday to consider whether to vote the Democratic ticket again this election as stated by one of the committee, who was made temporary chairman. After the preliminary work was completed a committee on resolutions was appointed. The committee retired from the room for about twenty-five minutes and returned with resolutions denouncing fusion with any party.

The resolutions, before their passage, called forth quite a number of ardent and very candid speeches, relating to the recent scheming and sell out by the leaders (?) of their party.

Speeches were made by K. H. Martin, J. R. Henry, W. A. Helm, Wm. Lake, Elder Hawkins, Jacob Weller, Robt. Hickey, Henry King, Aaron Hawkins, R. D. Dodson and others made short expressions to indicate their displeasure at the recent proceedings of their would-be leaders, who attempted to plunge them into an abyss of political ruin, and tarnish the moral purity of their unsullied names. One said their party had been largely delivered to pie-buffers, but he wanted it understood he would never be delivered again. Another said the People's party formerly had two enemies—the Republican party and the Democratic party—but now it has the fusion party, which is the bitterest foe it has ever encountered; because its leaders assume to be friends, which they are only office seekers, a class repudiated by Populists. We, as Populists, care not for the source from which reformation comes, just so it comes; but Democracy is too degraded to give relief to any body, and no one capable of perceiving present environments and their past record can reasonably expect it. Another said he never voted the Democratic ticket but once, and that was at the last election, he was sold and delivered, but would never be again.

Several said they left the Democratic party because it is dead and rotten and if they could get nothing better to vote for they would stay at home. They left it because they were ashamed of it, and possessed too much manhood to return to such a shameful and disgraceful organization and give their suffrage to sustain their fiendish devotees.

Another said he desired a full Populist ticket so he could vote his exact sentiments, but let it be known that if he selects between the cabin and the rooster he would take the cabin. Another said fusion is ruining the party, because, if fusionists, we are on the block and liable to be delivered to any market where the demand and remuneration are sufficient, and no one desires to enter such a party. We are men of principles and by our principles we'll "sink or swim; live or die," our party may die, its principles never.

Another said the Democrats refused to give up their device, as their chairman stated, because it disorganizes and discredits their party, and its voters are too true to chicken to touch their stencil under the Plow and Hammer, but the same rule the Democrats applies to himself applied to the Populists will destroy them. Let the Demmie vote under the rooster, I'll vote under the Plow and Hammer.

It was suggested that they give the Democrats no other chance to bait their hook for them. They had bit once too often already. Many other things were said, but these I write that you may know that Populists can not be delivered by party bosses into the fold of any party.

It was developed during the meeting that some one of the fusion element, when the Demo-Pop committee were considering how to conduct the campaign, that they discouraged the use of Populist literature, as it was all against fusion.

The meeting was composed of some of our most scrupulous and upright citizens. Citizens who are sacredly devoted to the Populist party.

The resolutions were carried by a unanimous vote and are to be sent to the Fordville Express and the Hartford Republican for publication.

NOBLE GRECE.

Noble Greece, sublimely brave,
Stands singly and alone,
Defying the powers to enslave,
Her people and her throne.

Sovereign Kings forbade the Cretes,
To cast off the Sultan's chains
And anchored massive armored fleets
In shot of Candia's plains.

But Greece, who in a fateful hour,
Drove Xerxes' army to the sea;
Stands unarméd before the powers,
And declares the Cretans free.

Brave Grecians go to Homer's shrine;
And entreat the sleeping bard,
To thrill his country with a rhyme
That will free the Nation's ward.

Then go to Alexandria's grave—
That king of soldiers, bid him rise,
To lead the gallant and the brave,
To victory 'neath fair Grecian skies.

But no, let Homer keep his grave;
He has earned eternal rest,
For patriotism is ablaze,
Already in each Grecian breast.

Let Alexandria slumber too;
You will find one to command
Yours soldiers and the thousands who
Will come from other lands.

Then noble Greece, God speed thee on
In freedom's cause, 'tis holy work
To free the suffering Cretans from
The dominion of the godless Turk.

Work for Americans.

The requirements of American foreign commerce compel the annual construction of about half a million tons of ships. Practically speaking, none of this is now constructed in the United States. Roughly speaking, about fifty millions of dollars would be spent in the shipyards of the United States, if the needed half million tons of vessels were annually constructed here. This would create a demand for about a couple of million tons of iron ore, and a corresponding amount of coal and coke and lime. It would give our rolling mills, our forges and our foundries a vast amount of new work; our lumber mills would find a large demand for materials for ship construction and equipment; the manufacturing establishments would be busied in making the multitude of articles needed to equip and maintain ships. The farmers would be called upon to supply food for hundreds of thousands of families whose fathers, husbands and sons would find new employment in all the variety of industries that are called upon to supply the materials and articles which enter into ship construction. —[Seaboard] March 18, 1897.

Silver Won Changes After a Visit to Mexico.

Mr. T. E. Pyley and wife, of Chicago, Ill., are spending a few days at Mr. W. T. Phillips, near Harrodsburg, says the Democrat. Mr. Pyley represents the Kelley Steam Boiler Company, of Springfield, O., and has been traveling through Mexico in the interest of his firm the past year. He went there a free silverite, but returns a gold-bug of the most pronounced hue. He says that under the blighting influence of its monetary system agricultural products in that country are cheaper than in this, while commodities the farmer needs are double the cost of the same here, a state of affairs directly opposite to that claimed by the free silver people. Ninety per cent, of the people live in most abject poverty, and a colossal Harrodsburg would be considered a palace in that country. Land has depreciated and sugar costs from 9 to 10 cents a pound and meat from 18 to 20 cents a pound and here sells there at $1.75. A laborer is paid from 40 to 50 cents in Mexican coin for a day's work, but a skilled laborer does a little better. Such is the condition of affairs that a bank note issued by one State passes at a discount in others, and in many will not even pass that way. The only currency that passes at par value is the National Bank of Mexico note and that of the Bank of England, it being a penal offense to discount either of these. Our silver dollar is worth from 194 to 200 cents in their silver, State or national bank money, while our silver dollar can be exchanged even for their gold dollar. No distinction is made between our gold dollar, silver dollar or bank note. They are protectionists, and not only charge a duty on all imports, but on all articles carried from one State to another. At present, however, they are allowing American corn to be shipped into their country free of charge because of a failure of their corn crop. Mr. Pyley had a note for $12,000 signed by the city of Monterey and the payment guaranteed by the State of Nuevo Leon, the best State in the republic. It bore 6 per cent, interest and was payable in six months. The three banks in Monterey refused to discount it, as did the National Bank of Mexico, because of the fluctuation of silver, but would have been willing to have taken chances had it been a thirty day note. He finally got his money by paying heavily for it.

Changing Sentiment. Some idea of the change in sentiment in the South regarding the Tariff question may be gained from this excerpt from the "Atlanta Constitution": "We have received a letter from a prominent lumberman of Savannah, who writes to ask if the 'Constitution' will aid the lumbermen of the United States to have a Protective Tariff of $2 a thousand placed on lumber, if we consistently can."

An "the 'Constitution' answers: "From the foundation of the Government there was a duty of $2 a thousand and on lumber until the professors of economy in the last Congress abolished it, at the demand of a combination of capitalists who had invested in Canadian timber. It was a fine scheme to sell out American interests in behalf of a principle, and it worked admirably—for the Canadians and the capitalist combine."

Curiously enough, too, the "Constitution" holds that "Free-Trade never was, and never will be, a part of the Democratic doctrine; for it is the opposite of a Revenue Tariff, which is the basis of Democratic economies. If the 'Constitution' favored Free Trade, it could not consistently do what our old friend asks us to do."

The Republican Protectionists, this seems like quibbling, but two facts are very apparent. One is that Southern lumbermen are for Protection, and the other is that the leading Democratic paper of the South also favors it under the guise of a revenue measure. If the South contains many such men as these, there should be no difficulty in bringing enough pressure on its Senators to pass a Tariff act.—[Buffalo, N. Y. Express]

The Populists of Ohio County Say They will Have a County Ticket.

Mr. J. R. Henry, a substantial farmer and a leading Populist of Bartlett precinct was in Hartford yesterday and in conversation with a reporter for THE REPUBLICAN said that the Populists of Ohio county were now organizing for the county campaign and were going to hold a meeting Monday to formulate plans, so as to maintain their party. He was very enthusiastic for the measure and claims that all the Populists of Bartlett and Magan precincts were in earnest in regard to the matter and a full Populist ticket was certain to be put in the field for all the county offices.

He recited instances where Chairman Holbrook, of the Democratic party, said that his party would not give up the rooster as it would kill the Democratic party, and then he said Holbrook had the cheek to ask the Populists to give up their device—the Plow and Hammer. He said the Populists would meet and nominate good men for all the offices and would make an aggressive campaign. He left the Democratic party because it was corrupt and would do nothing for the people and he would not be thrown with that class of people any more. He declared that the Democrats had broken every promise they had ever made the people and he knew that they could not be relied upon to carry out any policy outlined by them. He further said that the gigantic trade gone into by some alleged leaders of the Democratic party will not work.

REPUBLICAN SENATOR.

William J. Deboe Elected After a Long Struggle.

Received Seventy-one Votes in the Joint Assembly.

Will go Straight to Washington to Assist Republican Legislation.

Blackburn Dies Hard, Politically, and Pours hot Shots Into the Gold Democrats.

ALL KENTUCKY GLAD.

Deboe, 71. Blackburn, 50. Martin, 13. Stone, 1.

Frankfort, Ky., April 28.—The hardest fought Senatorial struggle in the history of Kentucky is at an end, and a clean, pure and able Republican statesman will succeed Hon. J. C. Blackburn, who has misrepresented the real sentiments of the people of Kentucky so long.

The end of the memorable struggle, extending over two sessions of the Legislature, brought with it the election of Hon. William J. Deboe, one of the best Republicans in the State. Only forty seven years of age, young, active and brilliant, Senator Deboe will be a credit to his party and an honor to his State. He goes to the Senate with no cliques, rings or pledges to bind him, but as a true representative of every Kentuckian in the State.

Senator Deboe will be on hand ready to vote in the Senate on Monday, and he will cast his vote for Republican principles. Amid the wildest cheering, hand-clapping, waving of parasols, fans and handkerchiefs, Hon. W. J. Deboe was declared elected to-day to be the successor of J. C. Blackburn in the United States Senate.

Before the result of the ballot was announced the cheering began, and in the excitement of the moment a motion to adjourn was entertained and adopted before the newly elected Senator could be brought in for a speech.

He received his friends in the west library room after the session, where hundreds called to congratulate him. The sixtieth and final ballot of the session of the General Assembly was held to-day at noon, in the presence of the largest crowd ever present in the historic old hall of the House of Representatives.

The lobbies and galleries were filled, and long before the Senate filed in it was almost impossible to move around on the floor of the House. The Governor and all the State officers were present, smiling and happy, on what they knew was to be the final and victorious day of the joint session. The Senate was announced by Doorkeeper Reed promptly at 12 o'clock, and they were fully ten minutes getting seated, when the Lieutenant Governor announced that the session held was for the purpose of taking the sixtieth ballot for the election of a United States Senator from Kentucky.

The reading of the journal of yesterday was dispensed with, on motion of W. H. Jones. The Clerk then called the roll to ascertain if a quorum was present. Sixty-nine Republicans and twelve sound money Democrats responded to the call, and the Chair announced that eighty one members were present.

Mr. Howard, of Butler, then formally nominated Hon. W. J. Deboe for United States Senator. Amid loud cheers Senator W. H. Clark seconded the nomination. The Chair requested that the House be as quiet as possible while the ballot was being taken, and then ordered the Clerk to proceed with the roll call.

The Democrats refused to vote when their names were called, hoping to break a quorum, but when the name of Sound Money Democrat Senator W. B. Hayward was called and he cast his vote for Henry L.

Martin their last hope was gone. The sound money Democrats voted right along when their names were called for Martin.

The final scene in the play "Blackburnism" was enacted at the Opera house to-night before an audience of about two hundred and fifty people. The stage was filled with a number of smaller members of the cast, with a few prominent Republican legislators occupying seats.

The star actor of the show, the ex-United States Senator, arose promptly at 8 o'clock, after a rose had been pinned on the lapel of his coat by Col. Robert Tyler, who was Sergeant at Arms of the Senate, who was kindly cheered for his action. Senator Wm. Gobel presented the fallen idol as "the gamest Democrat in Kentucky."

Blackburn started out by saying that he had not been defeated; that it was only a failure, and that this could be remedied, whereas defeat could not be. He then stated that he had no ill-feeling against the Republicans, who had fought him openly; that it was against the midnight assassins, who, thirteen in number, had stood beneath the Democratic banner and stabbed its nominee; that he felt ill toward them; that he thought God Almighty owed the people of Kentucky an apology for allowing them to exist.

This tirade of abuse against all who had opposed him continued for an hour and a half, and he closed enjoining Wm. J. Bryan, and thanking the friends who had stayed with him on all occasions during the past eighteen months.

A number of Republican legislators were present in the hall to vote the dying struggles of the Popocratic leader.

WHAT GAGE SAID.

In 1891 Foretold the Treasury Proclamation of 1893.

His Often Quoted Address of 1894—Importance of Credit—Summary of Defects of Our Currency System.

The new secretary of the treasury, Lyman J. Gage, is not a novice either in the theory or practice of financial affairs. Long before most bankers and business men were greatly concerned about our national finances he saw danger ahead and prophesied what would—and what 'd-happen, unless certain changes were made in our unsound and unsound financial system.

On February 19, 1891, Mr. Gage read a paper before the Sunset club in Chicago. After explaining how money was made, he said: "The free play of human choice, ending in consensus of action, and never by conventional agreements made in advance," he discussed our own monetary conditions. He pointed out how the United States, by accepting both metals and by allowing its creditors to choose either, kept together the two metals, whose values were diverging rapidly. To the question: "Can the government continue this policy indefinitely and thus 'forever preserve a higher value to its silver coin than its equivalent in silver bullion?'" he replied that it could not. "The proportion of silver payments to the government," he said, "will steadily increase until the treasury department will be obliged to either pay in silver or buy gold in exchange for it. With free coinage of silver," he added, "this result will be the sooner reached." Nothing could be clearer or sounder than this. It is precisely what happened.

In the autumn of 1894 he took part in an elaborate discussion of the money question at the Commercial club of Chicago. His address at this meeting is often referred to and is now of much interest, since it contains what he says are still substantially his ideas in regard to currency reform. We quote below the greater part of this address:

"In speaking upon the subject of the money system one must be aware that in whatever he may say he will excite the hostile criticism and draw forth bitter invective from some one or more of the various factions who are seeking to establish on new and experimental foundations our much disturbed financial structure.

"Through our heterogeneous system the public mind has seemingly lost the power to discriminate between real things and the shadows or signs of things. It is necessary that disguises be pulled aside and that real facts appear.

"There is, in truth, only one real money—viz., metallic coin. It may be composed of gold or silver. It might be of something else, but it is not. Greenbacks, treasury notes and national bank notes are but promises to pay. In the nature of things they can be nothing more. They are promises, and the functions of money, often more conveniently than money itself. Because of this confusion comes, and we are led astray. Seeing that the greenback is uttered by the government; that it has, by the legal tender quality imparted to it, the power to pay debts, and that it circulates with all the power of money, discrimination ceases—we call it money—and the idea that government can create money by its sanction or fiat becomes rooted in the mind. The distinctions just pointed out are, however, fundamental distinctions. They should be taught in the schools. They are simple, easy to be understood even by a child.

"We admit that on many occasions paper money, whether greenbacks, treasury notes or national bank notes, is more to be desired than gold. Yet more to be desired than silver, as proved by the daily conduct of men, is a credit balance in a solvent bank. For, to secure this better form of good, people voluntarily give to the banker these promises to pay—yes, even gold itself—for a credit to an equal sum upon his books. With an entry upon their passbook as evidence of the transaction they claim to have 'money in the bank.' In popular language, the claim is well enough, but, correctly speaking, it is positively untrue. They have parted with their money; if money they had. It belongs to the banker; it is no longer theirs.

"The consideration they have received is an agreement from the banker to meet their requisitions upon him from time to time. If the banker is faithful to his obligations they have made no bad bargain, for all these things—greenbacks, treasury notes, national bank notes and so on—the popular language, money in bank—are in their nature and essence one—viz., they are forms of credit. Their value, each and all alike, lies in the ability of the owner to convert them at last into the only real form of money now existent—metallic coin. And to make the transaction a little harder, the only value of the metallic coin lies, not in the coin as a coin, but in the power of the metal the coin contains to exchange for other things.

"It should here be noted that while our silver dollar is its power to exchange for other things is more than doubled by another and artificial value imparted to it through the law, which gives it power equal to the dollar in gold to pay customs dues. Having an equal value in this direction, the quantity being limited, it has equal value in all directions, but the difference between the metallic value of the silver dollar and this arbitrary value lies in the realm of credit. What I have so far said lies at the foundation of the subject and must be first understood.

"We have now current in the United States available in the purchase and sale of commodities and for the payment of labor services the following agencies: "First, gold coin, silver coin—real money. "Next, greenbacks, treasury notes, national bank notes and bank checks. The last four to be classified together as forms of credit. "Their respective legal relationships to real money, however, are not alike. The national bank note and the bank check may both be satisfied by the tender of greenbacks or treasury notes, while the last two are redeemed only in coin or in payment of public dues.

"In passing it may be well to note the relative use of these various agencies in the practical operations of commerce and trade. No better place to determine this can be found than the counter of a bank, and the following statement of the amount of each received by a bank in this city on a recent day will indicate their relative importance in that direction:

|--|----------------------|
| Gold coin | $ 5,883 |
| Silver coin | 15,581 |
| Gold certificates | 4,015 |
| Silver certificates | 1,172 |
| Legal tender notes | $2,172 |
| Treasury notes | 25,263 |
| National bank notes | 25,263 |
| Total cash | $50,958 |
| Checks, drafts, bills of exchange | $5,598,945 |
| Percentage of cash to total credits | one per cent. |

"The lesson to be drawn from these figures is this: "Much the larger part of all our commercial exchanges is carried on by bank checks or other instruments of private credit. These instruments all relate to a certain form of money, in place of which they for the moment stand. If uncertainty intervenes as to what this related thing—this money—is, or is to be, distrust and confusion enter in. The mighty agency of personal credit is shaken. Commercial exchanges fall off, trade languishes and industry declines.

"The greenback was issued to pay debts, not to acquire value, or, if value was received, such value was either consumed or converted into value not available in the market. The greenback paid soldiers and government employees; it bought powder and munitions of war. The existence of a greenback is the evidence of a debt not paid. It is a lien upon the future.

"A national bank note, on the contrary, is the evidence of some existing value which lies somewhere as collateral for its redemption. To transfer such values is the only ordinary and proper occasion which calls for their issue. The volume in which they will appear marks the rise in prices or an increasing quantity of existing things. Like the bank check, they will be in active service when trade and commerce are active. Thus they enjoy the principle of elasticity, wholly lacking in any possible form of direct government issue. The method of their retirement is wholly different and subject to the trade and commerce of the country to less dangerous strain.

"There is no reason why the government should act as warehouseman for either gold or silver. Such a function is outside its proper limit of action. But we are faced by the condition, and it is the bête noire of the treasury. The enormous amount of $500,000,000 of silver, represented by $338,000,000 of silver certificates, added to the $150,000,000 purchased by the government under the Sherman act, constitutes a standing menace to every business interest.

"Our whole monetary system is the resultant of makeshift legislation and unsound compromises. It is time that reform began. I do not assume to offer more final remedies. In my own opinion the greenbacks should be permanently retired. The silver purchased under the Sherman act should be gradually sold and the treasury notes redeemed and canceled. Some well guarded system of bank note circulation, broadened and more elastic than the present national bank act, provides should be inaugurated. Such bank notes should be redeemable at a central place and be redeemable in gold only.

"To sum up, the defects of our present currency system are: 1. A confusing heterogeneity which needs simplification. 2. The greenback converts the principle of paper money—viz., that every note injected into the commercial system should represent an existing commercial value. 3. The treasury note is a standing evidence of a foolish operation, the creation of a debt for the purpose of a falling market of a commodity for which the purchaser has no use—it lies open to the just charge of being both idiotic and immoral. 4. The national bank note nearly conforms to the true principle of paper money, but the unreasonable requirements for security paralyze its efficiency and operate to destroy its elasticity. 5. The silver certificate encourages the use of silver to a larger extent than consists with the safe preservation of that metal on a parity with gold.

"To promote a national commission help to reform? There is reason to hope that it would be of great service in that direction. Such a commission, if rightly selected, would throw a flood of light upon these involved questions. The information it might gather would be of immense value to all our people and would guide us to wise legislation.

"Emotion and sentiment are not safe guides in matters of science. A clear apprehension of true principles will lead to correct action."

Watson Accepts the Verdict.
In a letter printed in the New York World of March 9 Thomas E. Watson, ex-candidate for vice president, says: "There was no clear meaning in the verdict of last November. It was that there should be no free and unlimited coinage of silver at the old ratio of sixteen to one."

WHAT IS MONEY?

Clearly Explained by a College President at a Farmers' Convention.
The following is part of the synopsis printed by the Milton (Wis.) Journal of an excellent address by President Whitford, of Milton college, before the farmers' convention at a recent meeting at Milton. It contains some very lucid statements of money and of the power of governments to fix value:

First.—Two separate and distinct values are assigned to money, one being the intrinsic or market value of the article used; the other the legal or face value, indicated by the stamp or device pressed upon the article. In some well known instances what is popularly called money has only one of these values.

Second.—The common practice of tribes and nations in selecting such articles or commodities for money is to adopt two kinds or grades of them, one having greater market value according to its weight, for use in the larger exchanges in trade; the other having lesser value, for the smaller exchanges. This practice furnishes the first essential condition for a system of bimetallic money.

Third.—Only that money is basic and widely and permanently used which is made of precious metals, very generally gold and silver. Other and perishable commodities are finally abandoned or held redeemable in these metals.

Fourth.—The market value of these metals, not their face value, constitutes the original and continuous quality by reason of which they are almost universally accepted as base or primary money. Government or custom can add a quality, not inherent, but temporary, to such metals and other articles used as a medium of exchange. But the real measure thus declared to be effective and lasting must be the one established by the laws of trade, not by the edicts of government.

Fifth.—Government itself cannot fix or control the market value or price of any metal or other commodity, whether used as money or in the practical arts. So it cannot make fiat money and compel the people to circulate it a great length of time as money of any sort.

Sixth.—Any coin or other money whose market value is less than their face value always soon expel from circulation all coins or other money whose market value is greater according to their weight, unless the former are redeemable in the latter. Whenever a coin shows even a slight inferiority of its market value to its face value, it tends at once to crowd out of use even a coin whose two values are equivalent.

Seventh.—Gold has been adopted by the principal civilized nations as primary money or the standard of values because of its greater market value, its less weight for a given sum of money and its least fluctuation in market value of any of the precious metals.

Eight.—Coins like silver, whose market value is less than their face value, can be kept circulating at the same time with gold coins even in somewhat large amounts only by being redeemable in the same denominations with the gold. The same is true of paper money, which has no appreciable market value.

Cheap Confederate Money.

A southern firm advertises 15 varieties of confederate bills for 25 cents, also a "rare collection of 50 different bills and shillings for only $2." Apparently the firm has millions of dollars' worth of this money for sale cheap.

What a pity that our old fogy constitution is in the way! But for it the cheap money advocates in any state where they have a majority could buy up this whole confederate outfit and start in business at once. The amount of prosperity and happiness that could be extracted from this old paper money would depend upon the size (population) of the state fortunate enough to secure the monetary outfit.

For instance, it would probably give Nevada more than $1,000 per capita and would at once transform her from one of the poorest to one of the wealthiest of states. Instead of sagebrush and prizefights she would team with granaries, though the beneficial results of the constitution which prevents state money rule in monetary affairs and the manifold blessings of cheap money!

Retire Legal Tender Notes.

The fear of contraction has a good deal to do with the very common opposition to the policy of retiring the legal tender notes, but there is no sufficient ground for it. No one has suggested any process of retirement that would not be gradual and the process would necessarily be spread over several years, though the beneficial results of the policy would begin to be felt at once. An act of congress providing for the retirement of the notes would establish confidence at home and abroad in the determination and the ability of our government to prevent a repetition of the panic of 1893, inasmuch as that would be of marked benefit to the country, and all the advantages of a sound currency system would be experienced long before the last of the legal tender notes had disappeared. Our large volume of paper currency has tended to keep gold out of the country, and with the disappearance of the ordinary forces of trade would send gold this way.—Iron Age.

Gold and Silver Nuggets.

First.—There is no free coinage country in the world to-day that is not on a silver (or paper) basis.

Second.—There is no gold standard country that does not use silver as money along with gold.

Third.—There is not a silver standard country that uses gold along with silver.

Fourth.—There is not a silver standard country that has more than one-third as much money in circulation per capita as the United States.

Fifth.—There is not a silver standard country in which the laboring man receives fair pay for his day's labor.

One reason why people never pay any attention to signs or advertisements daubed on old fences, stables, bridges, etc., is because they do not know whether they are reading the advertisements of some firm still in business or one that has been dead for years. When you read the advertisements of a newspaper that is up to date you know that advertiser is alive and doing business.

Your attention is directed to the advertisement of the American Business College, Omaha, Neb., which appears in this issue. They offer to give a thorough course of instruction in business branches by mail free of charge for advertising purposes. This is a rare chance. The A. B. C. is one of the successful business colleges in the United States, and to take a course with them means success.

A Pleasant Day.

A jollier crowd never left Union than the one on last Sunday morning week. Preparations had been made by several of the young people to spend the morning at High View on Green river. About 8 o'clock all were ready and after an hour's drive, the distance was reached, and soon the crowd proceeded to ascend the hill and when they returned a sumptuous dinner was spread by the young ladies, which was highly enjoyed. About 2 o'clock they left for Union, where they attended meeting. All feeling they had spent a day long to be remembered.

The news from Cuba is somewhat confusing. It is reported that Gen. Weyler reports in the urections subdued, and is shipping away his troops from island in large numbers. The Cubans assert, however, that they are not whipped, and that the soldiers are leaving because they can't ship them.
